

Modeling Local Community Participation in Lake Urmia Restoration

Conservation of Iranian Wetlands Project
 "Saving Wetlands: for People, for Nature"

Key Stakeholders

Research Institute of Agricultural Engineering

Local Communities

Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs)

Organizations of Agriculture-Jahad

Conservation of Iranian Wetlands Project (CIWP)

Department of Environment (Provincial Directorate)

International Organizations

Private Sector

Regional water companies

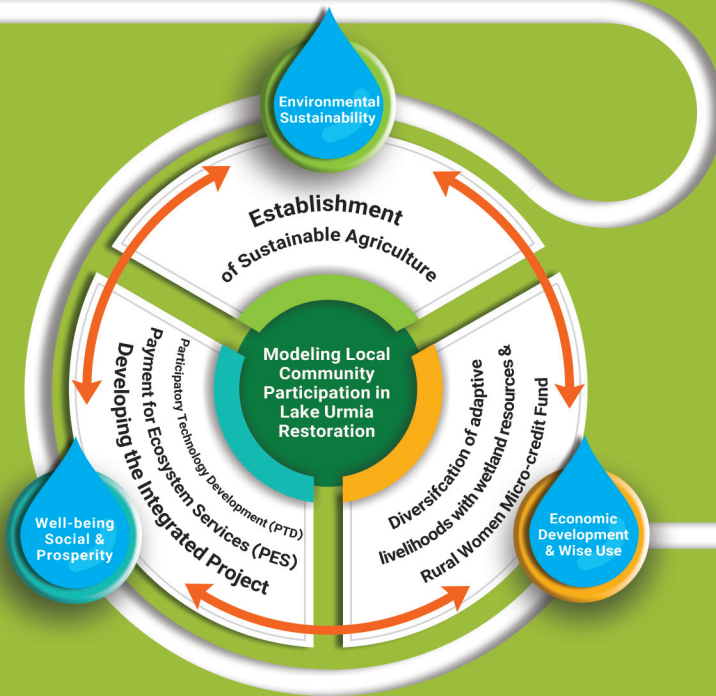

From the People of Japan

The Process of Attracting Local Community Participation in Lake Urmia Restoration

The main areas of project activity

Enter into the Local Communities & Trust-Building

1

2

Identifying the Potentials, Opportunities and Challenges of Local Communities

3

Developing a Participatory Roadmap

4

Training & Empowering of Local Communities

5

Participatory Implementation of the Action Plans

6

Comprehensive Monitoring & Continuous Assessment

Achievements

Reduction in the Chemical Pollutants Consumption

Water Consumption Optimization (Water Productivity Improvement) %27

Empowering Local implementing partners & experts

Biodiversity Conservation

Enhancing Cross-Sector Collaborations through the Implementation of Ecosystem Management

Local Community Capacity Building

Social Mobilization and Enhancing Social Awareness & Responsibility