

Islam and environmental teachings for the people

The religion of Islam is the most perfect divine religion that is definitely suitable for all different periods of time, even the modern world today, in addition to meeting the needs of the human race and planning to achieve perfection and achieve the goal of creation. Reflecting on the verses of the Holy Quran and the hadiths of the Imams, we find that the religion of Islam has brilliant laws for the preservation of the environment and natural resources.

Islam has interfered in all human affairs and relations, including divine and human relations, even in human relations with animals and other objects, and has prescribed special rules and regulations for all, but sometimes it has established generalities or principles and rules that Can be obtained from that sentence of the desired subject, one of the duties of man on earth is to develop the earth and it is an example of man's excellence and God's pleasure to protect it. Its destruction is also an example of corruption on earth and causes divine wrath.

Lake Urmia Wetland is one of the wetlands that is under serious threat of drying and pollution, given that the people living in the Lake Urmia basin of this lake are Muslims and since the religion of Islam used its followers Optimally invited from God-given sources, It is expected that by informing the local communities in the region about the dangers and effects of this instability, we will see good results in the set of lake restoration activities in various ways.
